

Klaus Peter Frohmüller (born 1950)

Graduate in economics

Peter Frohmüller studied economics at the University of Konstanz.

After completing his studies and working as a trainee, he assumed various management posts in the branch network of Commerzbank, with the focus on organization and operations. In 1990, he moved to Commerzbank AG's headquarters in Frankfurt/Main, where he established the organization function and internal transaction bank. He was in charge of handling retail banking business, national and later international securities business, and global payment transactions, coupled with his responsibility for a large number of optimization and reorganization programs and the projects relating to the millennium changeover, introduction of the euro and integration of Euro Hypo.

From 2006 to 2013, Klaus Peter Frohmüller was COO (Chief Operating Officer), CIO (Chief Information Officer) and, up to 2009, Labor Director on the boards of the Wüstenrot & Württembergische Group in Stuttgart and Ludwigsburg and a member of the Supervisory Board of various companies. He currently works as a freelance consultant with brain-in-transAction GmbH.

Klaus Peter Frohmüller is married and has a daughter.

Special know-how and experience for working as a member of the Supervisory Board at euromicron AG:

Klaus Peter Frohmüller has extensive Supervisory Board and management experience from heading and supervising large companies and small and medium-sized enterprises. He has extensive knowledge in issues relating to reorganization and integration, in particular with regard to cost efficiency and IT/process optimization. Thanks to his many years of work in banking, he has great competence in relationship management and a substantial banking network.

Expertise/focal areas:

IT and organization; extensive experience in reorganization and integration; great competence in relationship management thanks to a substantial banking network

Other Supervisory Board posts:

Member of the Advisory Board of Ziemann-Sicherheit, Schallstadt
Member of the Advisory Board of 67rockwell, Hamburg